Green Century is the only mutual fund company in the United States wholly owned by environmental and public health nonprofit organizations. 100% of the profits earned from managing the Green Century Funds belong to those nonprofit organizations.

Nonprofit Ownership

More than 25 years ago, a group of environmental leaders founded Green Century to provide a way for people who care about the planet to save for their future without compromising their values.

Today, every dollar Green Century earns managing its Funds supports those nonprofit organizations and their work to protect the environment and public health and enact positive public policy.

As the first family of fossil fuel free, responsible, and diversified mutual funds in the U.S., few mutual funds can match Green Century’s sustainable-investment strategy.

Even fewer offer an in-house, in-depth shareholder advocacy program.

No other mutual fund offers investors the opportunity to make an environmental impact through its ownership, which makes Green Century truly one of a kind.

Green Century has provided financial support for numerous environmental and public health campaigns of its nonprofit owners and partners, including:

Stocks will fluctuate in response to factors that may affect a single company, industry, sector, country, region or the market as a whole and may perform worse than the market. Foreign securities are subject to additional risks such as currency fluctuations, regional economic or political conditions, differences in accounting methods, and other unique risks compared to investing in securities of U.S. issuers. Bonds are subject to risks including interest rate, credit, and inflation. A sustainable investment strategy which incorporates environmental, social and governance criteria may result in lower or higher returns than an investment strategy that does not include such criteria.
