

GREEN CENTURY FUNDS

Green Century^o believes that even corporate sustainability leaders have room for improvement, which is why we pressured over 80 companies last year to adopt stronger environmental practices and policies throughout their operations and supply chains.

Shareholder Advocacy

The shareholder advocacy programs of many mutual fund companies consist solely of proxy voting or analyst conversations. Not Green Century.

While Green Century votes its more than 600 proxies in-house to support more sustainable corporate practices, Green Century's in-depth shareholder advocacy program goes well beyond proxy voting to deliver tangible results. Green Century pressures companies to adopt environmental policies through direct engagement, global collaborations, and as a leader of investor groups to make an impact for our shareholders.

Every year, Green Century also files numerous shareholder proposals, which are formal requests that a company take a specific action based on a business case. In 2021, Green Century:

- Engaged 80 companies on issues including forest protection, clean energy, plastic pollution and preserving biodiversity.

- Secured 20 policy changes from corporations around the globe.
- Secured the most majority votes on environmental proposals of any mutual fund or asset manager, including a 70% vote at Costco.*

Our shareholder work won protection for Georgia's Okefenokee Wildlife Refuge from titanium mining.

Reducing Plastic

Secured a commitment from The Coca-Cola Company (Coca-Cola)* to reduce its cumulative use of virgin plastic by 3 million metric tons by 2025, which is the equivalent of eliminating 200,000 plastic bottles per minute.

Curbing Climate Change

Nearly 70% of Costco shareholders in January voted in favor of a Green Century proposal requesting that the company set greenhouse gas emission targets.

Protecting the Arctic

Chevron* has abandoned plans to drill in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and has ended its involvement in the Arctic region following two years of shareholder proposals from Green Century.

Biodiversity

Convinced JPMorgan Chase* and Citigroup* to adopt a policy to protect tropical rainforests that are home to diverse and endangered species.

Advancing Right to Repair

On the same day that Green Century had to make a decision on whether to press forward on a right-to-repair shareholder proposal, Apple* introduced a new program that will provide individual consumers access to replacement parts, tools and other repair manuals needed to perform common repairs to its products.

A sustainable investment strategy which incorporates environmental, social and governance criteria may result in lower or higher returns than an investment strategy that does not include such criteria.
